

Wonders Of King's Domains Are To Be Assembled At The British Empire Exhibition

(By Sir John St. John Fraser)

There are dates which stand out boldly in the story of our race, the coming of William the Conqueror, Magna Charta, the first of the Stuarts, the death of Nelson, Waterloo, the outbreak of the Great War. Next year, 1924, will stand out through history as Empire Year.

A strange, unparalleled thing in our Empire which came into existence almost as an accident, which is held together by no written code, but by the silent thread of loyalty to the Crown and the affection of brothers scattered throughout the world, at an odd enough to remember when home-jaunting Britons regarded what were called the Colonies as something of a nuisance and with no regret at the prospect of the time when they would break away from the old empire and fend for themselves; but I am proud to have lived to see them advance from being the children of fortune to busy, adventurous, progressive, grown-up sons, independent Commonwealths, Dominions, Unions, co-equals with ourselves in the Empire.

Next year we will celebrate the unity, the solidarity of the Empire. Slaves, slave-mongers, but showed John Bull is preparing to give notice to the strong lioned son of Canada, the sturdy sunburnt happy Australians, the slim, energetic and experimental New Zealanders, the men who are making South Africa prosperous, the men of the Crown Colonies and the innumerable "possessions" which grow up throughout the seven seas, the sons of gorgeous India, men of many races and religions, but in freedom under the Union Jack.

At Wembley, within the great heart-throb of our race called London, tens of thousands are to be gathered in the Empire to show, but where at the British Empire Exhibition, making new lands fruitful, will meet many of them for the first time, and look into each others' eyes and know that here, distant they may live from each other, they are brothers.

We want to see these men and women of our own blood whether they come from the great cities like London and Sydney, from the remotest of the back-blocks, from our dependencies, the coast or the islands of the Pacific; and we want them to see us. If there be a language barrier amongst our overseas brethren, as I sometimes believe, there is that there is any language barrier to all the people of the English to those who live in Canada, Australia or elsewhere, we are going to show them how wrong they are. We have the reputation of being generous in hospitality to the stranger, without our gates. How then can we refuse our own brothers? There is plenty of evidence that next year London will surprise itself in the exuberance of its hospitality.

"How little they know of England who only England know," a saying which will be quoted as many a banquet. It is true. But there is a gathering wave of patriotism and an eagerness to better understand what the Empire signifies in the Empire. We will joyfully extend our knowledge. Visitors will get acquainted with each other. We will visit the great halls at Wembley which will present a panorama, a pageant indeed of productivity. And all of us will feel a thrill of pride in the achievements of each other. Therefore 1924 will be remembered as the great year when in London, most that the Empire stands for was revealed, and all parts will be seen together in the light of civilization. Whilst each of the countries will arrange its own affairs there will evolve a higher realization of the interests we have in common and the interdependence we have with each other.

In those special days there is no magellan's carpet on which to walk from the other side of the Atlantic to the antipodes of England, that all shipping companies are making special arrangements to carry hundreds of thousands of pilgrims to England. In the far, most distant Canada and beneath the hot sun of England, I feel there are men, men and women too, who have never seen England and yet have to call it "home" who are beginning to have the great desire to visit the homeland, to see

Natural Resources Bulletin

How the Forests Contribute to Our Telephone Service

The Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa says:

Of the 94,102 telephones in use in Canada in December last, the three prairie provinces had 230,290. Manitoba having 67,511, Saskatchewan 96,706, and Alberta 67,511. Ontario, of all the provinces, has the greatest number, 462,012. These figures, however, have but slight bearing upon the matter which one of our chief natural resources—the forests—is rendering to telephone lines in the different provinces. A bulletin recently issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, gives the number of pole-line miles covered by Canada's network of telephone lines. Of a total pole-line miles of 184,471, the prairie provinces use 107,655 pole-line, showing the immense distance which separates all lines in the western provinces as compared with Ontario which has a total of 17,176 pole-line miles.

In the construction of telephone lines an average of 10 poles are required per mile; the number of poles in use at the end of December was therefore 7,362,580. As each pole represents a tree it will readily be seen that the end of December was therefore 7,362,580. As each pole represents a tree it will readily be seen that the end of December was therefore 7,362,580.

"Know What Smudge Was For" Pack horses used in the Canadian army which carried the band north of Athabasca Landing, Alberta, did not need to be taught what smudge was for. The moment it was started they crowded up into the smoke to escape the tormenting fumes. This made it easy to round them up for the next day's journey.

Cattle Trade Needs

No Outlet For Poorly Finished Stock In Export Trade

In the review of livestock marketing conditions in August, the Dominion Livestock Branch makes the point that livestock exporters "The export condition of pasture in Ontario and Quebec was more or less responsible for the large condemnations of this stock. Cows weighing in the west were fairly good in practically all districts and not such as to induce exportation. Prospects for coarse grains and roughage are very promising, and cattle holdings are not more as heavy as during the autumn of 1922. It would appear to be good for the livestock trade to keep the movement to slaughter during September and October, as feed of light finished cattle is available. The cattle that have been coming forward in increasing numbers, lack in weight, and finish, possibly more than in type. There is no outlet for such stock for the export trade, since they have neither the feeding nor weight desirable for export. The domestic trade, being very largely butcher and butcher, does not suit to load up with stock of poor dressing quality and can only do so at great prices.

The market must be changed, and as a result, the packers' estate becomes filled with a lot of carcasses and carcasses which can only do damage when the colder weather and shorter runs occur. As a result, there is a very heavy amount of poor quality beef going into consumption of a time when demand is at a strong point and meat is better served with beef that has been longer on the feet and marketed in more suitable condition, and, therefore, sold by the producer at prices that return a suitable profit."

Commodity Rates On Vegetables

Revision of Express Rates on Vegetables Is Refused

A judgment of the railway commission, last issued, denies the application of certain basic rates in Montreal, Montreal and Calgary, Alberta, for a revision of express rates on vegetables from these points, to account on a distance basis with rates on other commodities in lines eastward from British Columbia points. The same judgment also denies the application to advance by one month the period of special commodity rates on vegetables from Vancouver to Winnipeg, which is now in force from May 15 to November 30.

Cow-Testing In Ireland

Regulation and Improvement of Dairy Industry in Emerald Isle

A good deal of attention is being given to the regulation and improvement of the dairy industry in Ireland. Grading of butter is in full swing. The Department of Agriculture is actively engaged in its work of supervising the rearing of pure-bred dairy cows, and a register of dairy cattle has been established up to the end of 1922. The highest yield recorded being 1,427 pounds of milk in forty-five weeks. The majority of the pure-bred cows registered are dairy shorthorns, with Kergie the best milk producer. Since 1899, a total of 842 selected pure-bred bulls have been bred from registered cows and distributed in districts where cow-testing is carried on for mating with recorded cows.

Farthest North Savinill
Canada's farthest north savinill is operated by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Atkasut, on the delta of the Mackenzie River. It was originally purchased by the British Government for its use as a post in the Arctic, but timber is also cut, and if the guardians of the north were to fill all the orders received, even Eskimos along the Arctic coast would be specific customers.

To cover an acre of ground, with an inch of rain, 100 tons of water would be required.

Prairie Provinces Of Canada Supply High Grade Seed Wheat For Growers Of Southern Climes

(By P. Stewart, Secretary Canadian Seed Growers' Association)

Productivity, purity, and vitality are the essentials looked for in good seed. On account of Canada's southern latitude and superior climatic conditions combined with immense tracts of rich virgin soil, Canadian grain grows of any given kind or variety when planted in a southern latitude is known to yield a heavier crop of better quality than does seed of the same kind or variety produced in the southern latitudes. It would seem that this phenomenon has been capitalized by grain growers in the South Atlantic States. These growers usually obtain a large quantity of their seed potatoes from New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Grain growers and seed firms south of the Canadian border look to the prairie provinces of Canada as much of their highest seed supply.

But not until now has Canadian seed grown in its way in such quantities as to supply the demand of the United States. The S. S. Rogers, which is the Union State recently, carried bushels of registered Canadian wheat produced by a member of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association in Saskatchewan and exported from the United States.

This variety of wheat is Canadian bred of imported parentage, the parent being that first Canadian variety, the 9001 First from Greenleaf. The selection of Marquette, Dr. Charles E. Marquette, first placed Marquette at the head of Canadian grain growers in 1907. Now 20 per cent, as the Canadian wheat seed is Marquette.

Superior to it was estimated to be 12,000,000 bushels of the United States spring wheat crop belonged to Canada. In the educational and control work of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, extending back over a period of twenty years, the most painstaking studies of various kinds have been organized and utilized in their part of the country to give the best seed is obtained and maintained.

Approval and acceptance of varieties of wheat on the part of the United States Government, through the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, has been secured for the United States. The United States Government, through the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, has been secured for the United States.

Tourists Help The Farmer

Country Farms Financial Benefit As Well As City

Occasionally the farmer asks what he can do to help the tourist who is to him. His first judgment usually is that the cities and towns get all the benefit and he is left struggling alone to buy most of the goods that they need. Food and clothing are the commodities into which the greater part of the average individual's earnings are put. The farmer gets the largest share of the money spent on food and that commodity takes the heaviest toll from the city dweller's pay envelope. As tourist, tourists from the United States spend money anywhere in the Dominion of Canada it is almost sure to come to the farmer who will get the benefit. If they spend it in the province of Ontario it will bring the benefit to the farmer who will get the benefit. If they spend it in the province of Ontario it will bring the benefit to the farmer who will get the benefit.

Deputy Minister Resigns

Dr. Black To Take Charge of Colonization Dept. of C.N.R. in Place of Mr. Egan

On the occasion of Mr. Egan's resignation as Deputy Minister of the Department of Immigration and Colonization, Dr. W. J. Black was announced by the department as a handsome replacement, suitably inserted. The previous one was made in behalf of Mr. Egan. Dr. Black is to take charge of the Colonization and Development Department of the Canadian National Railways in the British Isles, with headquarters in London. Before joining the Department of Immigration and Colonization of the Canadian Government ten years ago, he was Chairman of the Settlers' Settlement Board of Canada. He has had a wide experience in colonization work and is one of the leading authorities on agriculture in Canada. For some time he was President of the Manitoba Agricultural College.

W. J. Egan was formerly in the Trade Commission Service of the Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce. Though tired by illness to abandon his previous attempt to fly around the world, Captain MacMillan is now preparing for another trip in the spring of next year. Tumps of stores and equipment are now being laid in on the flying Pacific route.

TAKE TIME IF NECESSARY

There are those throughout the province who are already beginning to find fault with the provincial legislature because of the possible delay of framing the new liquor law in compliance with the terms of clause "D" which was carried so decisively in the recent plebiscite.

The framing of the new liquor law will be one of the most troublesome the present government has been called upon to enact, not necessarily because it is a liquor law but rather because clause "D" was so worded on the ballot paper as to mean almost anything. It has been and is being interpreted to mean any one of a score of different things from the return of the old bar to the selling of beer and light wines everywhere from an ice cream parlor to a grocery store.

If, therefore, there is any delay and that delay caused because of a desire on the part of the government to get full information and advice before deciding on any definite policy, the delay is justifiable. People of Alberta don't want any half baked legislation in this matter nor do they want any laws passed that the people cannot expect will be enforced and will help to enforce.

AN AWKWARD POSITION

As usual at this time of the year our school is again being severely taxed to accommodate the children wishing to attend. This is caused by families from the surrounding country, where schools are closed, moving into town for the winter. These families rent homes here and thus become residents.

This places the school board in an awkward position. The Act says the Board must provide accommodation for children in school district. This same body which says that a Board must provide accommodation for children also establishes what is known as a Finance Commission. This commission tells our school Board they can't spend any more money than was provided for in the estimate. To provide the necessary accommodation would require another teacher as well as all the rooms have more pupils than the teachers can handle to advantage. But you can't get teachers for nothing now-a-days, so what is the Board expected to do. One department of our government says we must provide accommodation, another branch says you can't spend any more money. So there you are.

Since the present over-crowding caused by children coming from districts where schools are closed the department of Education take the grants and allowances from these districts and use them to supply another teacher for our school here. We have two rooms in our school unoccupied but cannot afford to secure teachers to teach in them. This new teacher might relieve the situation in several surrounding districts and prevent farmers from moving out of the district.

The Medicine Hat News appears to be quite worried because of the fact that the provincial government backed the wheat pool to the extent of a quarter of a million dollars. The News says the government is gambling with our money. We don't remember ever having read any criticism in the News when Liberal governments of a few years ago guaranteed the bonds of Co-Operative Elevators, the "Cow-Bill," branch railroads, and other ventures, whose money was the Liberal government "gambling" with on those occasions? In the language of the News in an Editorial just a few days previous: "The day is long past when newspapers could get away with that sort of thing."

Winnipeg politicians are predicting a general dominion election in the near future. The several Liberal meetings and the frequent visit of cabinet ministers through the country are taken as signs to this end.

ON LIQUOR QUESTION

British Columbia electors who will vote on several phases of the liquor question before the end of next year and this vote may include the proposal that government liquor control be abolished and prohibition re-established.

Meanwhile, it is understood that drastic measures will be taken to put beer clubs out of business.

If a plebiscite takes place it is said that the electors will be asked to vote on two questions:

1. Do you favor government control or prohibition?

2. If you favor government control do you want the present system of the sale of beer by the glass in licensed premises?
